INVITATION

Andrew Gilmour

"The Burning Question"
Author talk on climate and conflict

Please join us at the HD villa on 3 October for an evening with Andrew Gilmour as the Executive Director of the Berghof Foundation and former senior UN diplomat talks about his perspective on climate and conflict and his new book The Burning Question.

> Whether it is geopolitical competition over a thawing Arctic, the growth of violent extremism partly as a result of drought in Somalia, drying rivers impeding trade in Western Europe and hydro-electric power generation in China, or more frequent hurricanes in the eastern United States: all these issues can legitimately be viewed as interconnected matters of climate and security.

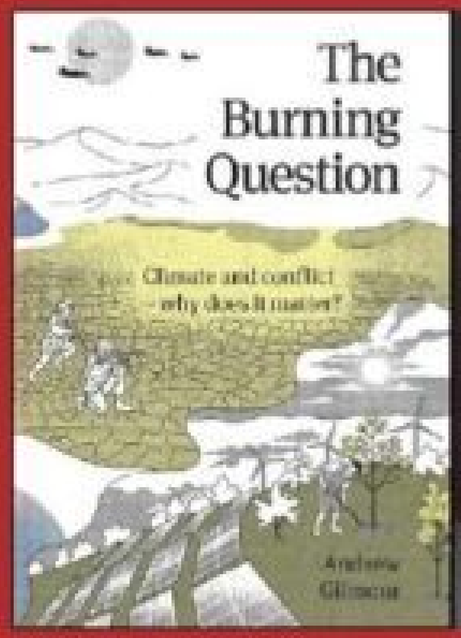
Hear more from Gilmour about how climate change contributes to conflict and undermines prospects for peace – and how we can ensure that efforts to address the climate crisis advance sustainable peace.

Join the conversation!

Open Q&A with Andrew Gilmour after his introduction.



The book is freely available online.
Scan this QR code and get a copy.

Thursday 3 October

17h30 to 19h30

Centre for Humanitarian Dialogue
114 rue de Lausanne, 1202, Geneva.

Drinks and light snacks served from 17h00.
In English with no interpretation.

Kindly confirm your place by replying to pr@hdcentre.org by 27 September.

Visit hdcentre.org to explore HD's peacemaking around the world.
For the latest updates, follow us on