

World Business Council
for Sustainable Development

TATIANA FEDOTOVA

PROFESSIONAL.VALUE-DRIVEN.DEDICATED

Tatiana Fedotova is a sustainability professional passionate about water-related challenges and solutions, including their role in empowering women to lead lives where they can realize their full potential. She is currently the Director of Water at the World Business Council for Sustainable Development, advocating for and facilitating progressive action by business to achieve sustainable water management for all. She previously held positions with the UN-hosted Water Supply and Sanitation Collaborative Council, including an advisory role in strategic communications for change to the Madagascar country program of the Global Sanitation Fund, and UNICEF in India. Tatiana holds degrees in Political Science, and Globalization, Social Regulation and Sustainable Development. She cares deeply about the resilience of humans and nature and is dedicated to building a fairer world, where growth and innovation go hand in hand with respect of people and planet earth.

#GENder4Envnt #IWD2017

a network supported by the Schweizerische Eidgenossenschaft
Confédération suisse
Confederazione Svizzera
Confederaziun svizra

