ABOUT THIS SESSION

The United Nations Environment Assembly is the world's highest-level decision-making body on the environment. It meets biennially to set priorities for global environmental policies and develop international environmental law. Through its resolutions and calls to action, the Assembly provides leadership and catalyzes intergovernmental action on the environment. Decision-making requires broad participation, which is why the Assembly provides an opportunity for all peoples to help design solutions for our planet's health.

The fifth session of the UN Environment Assembly (UNEA-5) will take place in two-parts, a reduced (de minimis) session in February 2021 and a resumed session in February 2022. It will mobilize, motivate and energize Member States and stakeholders into sharing and implementing successful approaches and nature-based solutions that contribute to the achievement of the 2030 Agenda and the Sustainable Development Goals, particularly the eradication of poverty and the promotion of sustainable patterns of consumption and production.

You are cordially invited to a briefing especially dedicated to Member States who are not represented in Nairobi, where UNEP has its headquarters, but also open to all stakeholders, will discuss the preparations of UNEA-5.
