Can Herbivore Management Increase the Persistence of Indo-Pacific Coral Reefs?

Ivor D. Williams*, Tye L. Kindinger†, Courtney S. Couch*, William J. Walsh, Dwayne Minton* and Thomas A. Oliver†

*Ecosystem Sciences Division, Pacific Islands Fisheries Science Center, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Honolulu, HI, United States
†Joint Institute for Marine and Atmospheric Research, University of Hawai’i at Mānoa, Honolulu, HI, United States
‡Hawai‘i Division of Aquatic Resources, Honolulu, HI, United States
§The Nature Conservancy, Honolulu, HI, United States

Caught in the Middle: Combined Impacts of Shark Removal and Coral Loss on the Fish Communities of Coral Reefs

Jonathan L. W. Ruppert, Michael J. Travers, Luke L. Smith, Marie-Josée Fortin, Mark G. Meekan

Published September 18, 2013 • https://doi.org/10.1371/journal.pone.0074646
Additional references:

- IPCC (2018) Special Report on Global Warming of 1.5 °C