

Dear colleagues,

The Water Action Agenda will be one of the main outcomes of the UN 2023 Water Conference and will set a path moving forward on how stakeholders across the world commit to making progress on water and sanitation.

On Monday, 27 February 2023 at 14:00 -15:30 CET / 08:00-09:30 EST / 20:00-21:30 ICT, Governments, organizations and other stakeholders are invited to a webinar Advancing Transboundary Water Cooperation through commitments for the UN 2023 Water Conference, organized by the Transboundary Water Cooperation Coalition

The UN 2023 Water Conference offers a unique opportunity for national governments, international organizations, civil society, academia, river basin organizations, the financing sector and other stakeholders to advance transboundary water cooperation through making voluntary commitments as part of the Water Action Agenda.

The webinar will present the UN 2023 Water Conference Water Action Agenda, give details about how to make commitments and then explore more in depth about why specifically commitments on transboundary water are useful, what kinds of commitments can be made and provide examples of commitments. This will be followed by a Q&A to answer any questions you might have.

The webinar will be held in English, French, Arabic and Spanish.

Please find here the link to register:

<https://zoom.us/meeting/register/tJAKdumvrzsqHdIJAKClrw0KBQU2nIQy9bOC>

Looking forward to seeing you there!

The Transboundary Water Cooperation Coalition is a diverse, multi-stakeholder coalition of actors from around the world with a wide range of functions and capacities that inspires and fosters equitable and sustainable cooperation on transboundary waters and provides support through its members.